A dozen pubs have come and gone since Woodstock sprang to life in May 1865 but only one has survived the test of time - The Royal Mail Hotel.

Londoner Harry Gaylor built these walls around 1870 on Clements Road. When the road was put through to Ross in 1878 he had his pub bodily shifted 200 yards up the hill to this site. The building (originally just the bar area) was jacked up and then rolled on empty beer barrels and pulled by horses. Gaylor's Hotel was now on the main road and a stopping place for the mail coaches to Ross so a new name seemed more appropriate - The Royal Mail Hotel.

The Royal Mail Hotel has played many roles in the life of Woodstock, not only as a public house but also as a community focal point, meeting place, post office and even as a morgue. Accidental deaths were common in the mining industry and the custom was to take the deceased back to the nearest public house for an inquest. The mates of the victim would lay out the body in the back parlour and sit through the inquest before adjourning to the bar for the wake.

Today The Royal Mail Hotel is owned and operated by local couple Colin and Leanne Cutler and is affectionately known to our locals as 'The Woody', we pride ourselves on our quality fresh flavoursome food and warm welcoming relaxing atmosphere. We serve great food every night with 'meal deals' and 'amazing' special dishes regularly featuring throughout the week and have an extensive children's menu available which includes a free 'goody bag' to help entertain your children.

In 2017 we started commercially brewing our own beers and fermenting our own ciders. We brew some fantastic small batch beers, 7 different craft beers and our 'Sweet Azz' cider are brewed right here at the Woody. We regularly have trial beers or something a little different, like our 'Tia Pia' ginger beer. These have proved very popular with both our locals and those from further afield.

We have a beer garden if you fancy relaxing al-fresco with great views overlooking the Hokitika river.

We are privileged, every Sunday, to host The Hokitika Music Club with an entertaining evening 'Jam' so if you fancy a strum or a song, rock on out, meet the crew and join in with the fun.

If you are looking for somewhere to stay we have the Woodstock cottage adjacent to the hotel and four self contained units will be opening soon.

Are you feeling peckish or just looking to unwind and perhaps meet some of the locals? We look forward to seeing you here. Where?

'Where else but the Woody'.
